

Inferri

Dante Italic

Thin Italic

Extra light Italic

Ultra light Italic

Light Italic

Book Italic

Normal Italic

Regular Italic

Medium Italic

Semi bold Italic

Bold *Italic

Extra bold *Italic

Black *Italic

Inferi takes its roots in Garalde like fonts. To cover a large panel of uses it has been designed in various styles and weights, allowing one to have an extensive type-tool for any kind of usage. Whether the need would be on book design, poster design or editorial uses, Inferi will be a nice fit to complex type-shaping. If your goal is to reach for a printed-type feeling on digital medium (websites, apps and such), you will find Inferi to be your tool of choice.

A well balanced family with squared edges and round finishes in the roman version, the italics cut deep into a more modern approach. Drawn with a careful "hand style" touch. A nice balance for complex layouts as the optical grey between roman and italics version will allow great legibility.

Abandon all hope, ye who enter here.

OPEN TYPE FEATURES

	OFF	ON	OFF	ON
Small Caps from Capitals	AÆBCDEFGHIJKLMNO ŒƆPQRSTUVWXYZ	AÆBCDEFGHIJKLMNO ŒƆPQRSTUVWXYZ	Tabular Figures 0123456789	0123456789
Small Capitals	aæbcdefghijklmno œƆpqrſtuvwxyz	AÆBCDEFGHIJKLMNO ŒƆPQRSſTUVWXYZ	Oldstyle Figures 0123456789	0123456789
Case Sensitive Forms	Ha ( ) [ ] { } ? ! ; : < > « » - - - •	Ha ( ) [ ] { } ? ! ; : < > « » - - - •
Fractions	1/4 1/2 3/4 1/8 3/8 5/8 7/8	¼ ½ ¾ ⅛ ⅜ ⅝ ⅞
Standard Ligatures	fb ff ffb ffh ffi ffj ffk ffl fft fh fi fj fk fl ft www Th	fb ff ffb ffh ffi ffj ffk ffl fft fh fi fj fk fl ft www Th
Stylistic Set 1	0123456789	①②③④⑤⑥⑦⑧⑨
Stylistic Set 2	0123456789	●①●②●③●④●⑤●⑥●⑦●⑧●⑨
Stylistic Set 3	0123456789	◻①◻②◻③◻④◻⑤◻⑥◻⑦◻⑧◻⑨
Stylistic Set 4	0123456789	■①■②■③■④■⑤■⑥■⑦■⑧■⑨
Stylistic Set 5	0123456789	◊①◊②◊③◊④◊⑤◊⑥◊⑦◊⑧◊⑨
Stylistic Set 6	0123456789	◆①◆②◆③◆④◆⑤◆⑥◆⑦◆⑧◆⑨

À	Á	Ă	Â	Ä	À	Ā	Ą	Å	Ã	Æ	B	C	Ć	Č
A	Aacute	Abreve	Acircumflex	Adieresis	Agrave	Amacron	Aogonek	Aring	Atilde	AE	B	C	Cacute	Ccaron
Ç	Ĉ	Ċ	D	Ð	Ǻ	Đ	Ḑ	E	É	Ě	Ê	Ë	È	È
Ccedilla	Ccircumflex	Cdotaccent	D	Eth	Dcaron	Dcroat	uni1E0C	E	Eacute	Ecaron	Ecircumflex	Edieresis	Edotaccent	Egrave
Ē	Ę	Ĕ	F	G	Ǧ	Ĝ	Ḡ	Ġ	Ĝ	H	Ĥ	Ĥ	I	IJ
Emacron	Eogonek	uni1EBC	F	G	Gbreve	Gcircumflex	uni1E22	Gdotaccent	uni1E20	H	Hbar	Hcircumflex	I	IJ
Í	Î	Ï	İ	Ì	Ī	Į	Ĩ	J	Ĵ	K	Ƙ	L	Ł	Ľ
Iacute	Icircumflex	Idieresis	Idotaccent	Igrave	Imacron	Iogonek	Itilde	J	Jcircumflex	K	uni0136	L	Lacute	Lcaron
Ĺ	Ł	M	N	Ń	Ñ	Ņ	Ṇ	Ñ	Ŋ	O	Ó	Ô	Ö	Ò
uni013B	Lslash	M	N	Nacute	Ncaron	uni0145	uni1E46	Ntilde	Eng	O	Oacute	Ocircumflex	Odieresis	Ograve
Õ	Ö	Ø	Õ	Œ	P	Ɔ	Q	R	Ŕ	Ř	Ŗ	S	Ś	Š
Ohungarumlaut	Omacron	Oslash	Otilde	OE	P	Thorn	Q	R	Racute	Rcaron	uni0156	S	Sacute	Scaron
Ş	Ŝ	Ș	Ş	T	Ț	Ț	Ț	Ț	Ț	U	Ú	Û	Û	Ü
Scedilla	Scircumflex	uni0218	uni1E62	T	Tbar	Tcaron	uni0162	uni021A	uni1E6C	U	Uacute	Ubreve	Ucircumflex	Udieresis
Ù	Ú	Ū	Ū	Ū	Ū	V	W	Ŵ	Ŷ	Ẁ	Ẁ	X	Y	Ý
Ugrave	Uhungarumlaut	Umacron	Uogonek	Uring	Utilde	V	W	Wacute	Wcircumflex	Wdieresis	Wgrave	X	Y	Yacute
Û	ÿ	ÿ	ÿ	Z	Ž	Ž	Ž	Ž	à	á	ă	â	ä	à Ycircumflex	Ydieresis	Ygrave	uni1EF8	Z	Zacute	Zcaron	Zdotaccent	uni1E92	a	aacute	abreve	acircumflex	adieresis	agrave

ā	ą	å	ã	æ	b	c	ć	č	ç	ĉ	ċ	d	ð	đ amacron	aogonek	aring	atilde	ae	b	c	cacute	ccaron	ccedilla	ccircumflex	cdotaccent	d	eth	dcaron đ	ḋ	e	é	ě	ê	ë	è	è	ē	ę	ẽ	f	g	ğ dcroat	uniE0D	e	eacute	ecaron	ecircumflex	edieresis	edotaccent	egrave	emacron	eogonek	uniEBD	f	g	gbreve ĝ	ḡ	ḡ	ḡ	h	ħ	ĥ	i	ı	í	î	ï	ì	ij	ī gcircumflex	uni0123	gdotaccent	uniE21	h	hbar	hcircumflex	i	dotlessi	iacute	icircumflex	idieresis	igrave	ij	imacron ı	ĩ	j	ĵ	ĵ	k	ķ	l	ĺ	ł	ł	ł	m	n	ń iogonek	itilde	j	uni0237	jcircumflex	k	uni0137	l	lacute	lcaron	uni013C	lslash	m	n	nacute ň	ņ	ņ	ñ	ŋ	o	ó	ô	ö	ò	ó	ō	ø	õ	œ ncaron	uni0146	uniE47	ntilde	eng	o	oacute	ocircumflex	odieresis	ograve	ohungarumlaut	omacron	oslash	otilde	oe p	þ	q	r	ř	ř	ŗ	s	ś	š	ş	ș	ş	ş	ß p	thorn	q	r	racute	rcaron	uni0157	s	sacute	scaron	scedilla	scircumflex	uni0219	uniE63	germandbls
t	ţ	ţ	ţ	ţ	ţ	u	ú	ů	û	ü	ù	ú	ū	ų t	tbar	tcaron	uni0163	uni021B	uniE6D	u	uacute	ubreve	ucircumflex	udieresis	ugrave	uhungarumlaut	umacron	uogonek ů	ũ	v	w	ŵ	ŵ	ŵ	ŵ	x	y	ý	ÿ	ÿ	ÿ	ÿ uring	utilde	v	w	wacute	wcircumflex	wdieresis	wgrave	x	y	yacute	ycircumflex	ydieresis	ygrave	uniIEF9
z	ź	ż	ż	ż	0	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9 z	zacute	zcaron	zdotaccent	uniE93	zero	one	two	three	four	five	six	seven	eight	nine

CHARACTER SET

/	1/2	1/4	3/4	1/8	3/8	5/8	7/8	.	,	:	;	...	!	! fraction	onehalf	onequarter	threequarters	oneeighth	threeeighths	fiveeighths	seveeneighths	period	comma	colon	semicolon	ellipsis	exclam	exclamdown
?	¿	.	•	*	#	/	\	-	—	—	—	(	)	{
question	questiondown	periodcentered	bullet	asterisk	numeralsign	slash	backslash	hyphen	endash	emdash	underscore	parenleft	parenright	braceleft
}	[	]	,	”	“	”	‘	’	«	»	<	>	"	'
braceright	bracketleft	bracketright	quotesinglbase	quotedblbase	quotedbleft	quotedblright	quoteleft	quoteright	guillemotleft	guillemotright	guilsingleft	guilsingright	quotedbl	quotesingle @	&	¶	§	©	®	™	°			†	‡	e	No	▼
at	ampersand	paragraph	section	copyright	registered	trademark	degree	bar	brokenbar	dagger	daggerdbl	estimated	uni2116	uni2B9F
■	◀	▶	▲	∩	∞	▼	▲	◀	▶	#	□	¢	₠	$
uni2B1B	uni2B9C	uni2B9E	uni2B9D	uni2325	uni2318	uni2B9B	uni2B99	uni2B98	uni2B9A	uni2317	uni2B1C	cent	currency	dollar
€	£	¥	+	-	×	÷	=	≠	>	<	≥	≤	±	≈
Euro	sterling	yen	plus	minus	multiply	divide	equal	notequal	greater	less	greaterequal	lessequal	plusminus	approxequal
~	¬	^	∅	∞	∫	∏	∑	√	∂	%	‰	↑	↗	→
asciitilde	logicalnot	asciicircum	emptyset	infinity	integral	product	summation	radical	partialdiff	percent	perthousand	arrowup	uni2197	arrowright
↘	↓	↙	←	↖	↔	↕	↑	●	○	◆	◇	◇	■	□
uni2198	arrowdown	uni2199	arrowleft	uni2196	arrowboth	arrowupdn	uni21E7	uni25CF	circle	uni25C6	uni25C7	lozenge	filledbox	uni25A1
▲	▶	▼	◀	△	▷	▽	◁	⋯	•	˘	˙	¨	^	∨
triagup	uni25B6	triagdn	uni25C0	uni25B3	uni25B7	uni25BD	uni25C1	uni0308	uni0307	gravecomb	acutecomb	uni030B	uni0302	uni030C

CHARACTER SET

◌̣	◌̇	◌̃	◌̄	◌̆	◌̈	◌̉	◌̊	◌̋	◌̌	◌̍	◌̎	◌̏	◌̐	◌̑
uni0306	uni030A	tildecomb	uni0304	uni0312	dotbelowcomb	uni0326	uni0327	uni0328	uni0335	uni0337	dieresis	dotaccent	grave	acute
◌̨	◌̩	◌̪	◌̫	◌̬	◌̭	◌̮	◌̯	◌̰
hungarumlaut	circumflex	caron	breve	ring	tilde	macron	cedilla	ogonek

ABOUT

FONT FAMILY TECHNICAL SPECIFICATIONS

LANGUAGES	FORMATS AVAILABLE	LICENSING	MANIFESTO
afrikaans, albanais, allemand, anglais, asu, bas-allemand, bas-sorabe, basque, bemba, béna, bosniaque, capverdien, catalan, cebuano, chewa, cisena, cornique, corse, créole mauricien, croate, danois, diola-fogny, embou, espagnol, espéranto, estonien, féroïen, filipino, finnois, français, francique ripuaire, frioulan, frison occidental, gaélique écossais, galicien, gallois, ganda, groenlandais, gusii, haut-sorabe, hongrois, ido, indonésien, interlingua, irlandais, isangu, islandais, italien, javanais, jju, kalendjin, kamba, kiga, kikuyu, kinyarwanda, kurde, letton, lituanien, lojban, luo, luxembourgeois, luyia, makondé, makua, malais, malgache, maltais, mannois, maori, matchamé, meru, ndébélé du Nord, ndébélé du Sud, néerlandais, norvégien bokmål, norvégien nynorsk, nyankolé, occitan, oromo, polonais, portugais, romanche, rombo, roumain, roundi, rwa, samburu, same d'Inari, same du Nord, sango, sarde, shambala, shona, sicilien, slovaque, slovène, soga, somali, sotho du Nord, sotho du Sud, suédois, suisse allemand, swahili, swati, taita, taroko, tchèque, teso, tsonga, tswana, turc, turkmène, vunjo, wallon, walser, wolof, xhosa, zoulou	Desktop: OTF  Web: WOFF2, WOFF, EOT  App: OTF  Variable: GX <hr/> DESIGNED BY Matthieu Salvaggio  Blaze Type <hr/> YEAR OF RELEASE 2019	Our licensing system covers all uses:  Print, Web, App, Broadcast  Once a font is purchased you will receive all font formats needed for your design.	Blaze Type (BLZT) is an independent French type design foundry. Our focus is to design, produce and distribute beautiful typefaces which will age gracefully and provide incredible functionality over their years of use. <hr/> CONTACT https://blazetype.eu  hello@blazetype.eu  @blazetype

INFERI DANTE 60 PT

Midway upon the journey of

INFERI DANTE 30 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had

INFERI DANTE 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway
had been lost

INFERI DANTE 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I

INFERI DANTE 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was

INFERI DANTE 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's

and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was moulting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness With the affright that from her aspect came, The hope relinquished of the height, And as he I who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thought and is despondent, E'en such made me that bear withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the silence is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes did one present himself, Who seemed from long-continued silence hoarse. When I beheld him in the desert vast, "Have pity on me," unto him I cried, "Whiche'er thou art, or shade or real man!" He answered me: "Not man; man once I was, And both my parents were of Lombardy, And Mantu

INFERI DANTE 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI DANTE 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the

INFERI DANTE 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of

INFERI THIN 60 PT

Midway upon the journey of

INFERI THIN 30 PT

Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had

INFERI THIN 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway
had been lost

INFERI THIN 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I

INFERI THIN 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still

INFERI THIN 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a

water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascend began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness With the affright that from her aspect came, Th the hope relinquished of the height. And as he who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thought and is despondent, E'en such made me that be withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the sea is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes did one present himself, Who seemed from long-continued silence hoarse. When I beheld him in the desert vast, "Have pity on me," unto him I cried, "Which'er thou art, or shade or real man! He answered me: "Not man; man once I was, And both my parents were of Lombardy, And

INFERI THIN 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI THIN 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the

INFERI THIN 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more;

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT 60 PT

Midway upon the journey of

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT 30 PT

Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway
had been lost

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more;
But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart,

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which ledeeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there.
I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which ledeeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned.

The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming

With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished of th height. And as he is who willingly acquires An the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E such made me that beast withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thru me back thither where the sun is silent While was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes did one present himself, Who seem from long-continued silence hoarse. When I beheld him in the desert vast, "Have pity on m unto him I cried, "Whiche'er thou art, or shade real man!" He answered me: "Not man; man or I was, And both my parents were of Lombardy.

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT 60 PT

Midway upon
the journey of

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT 30 PT

Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was
this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But

after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which
had with consternation pierced my heart,
Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road.
Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout
The night, which I had passed so piteously
And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there.
I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road.
Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to laden in her meagreness, And many folk has

caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished of height. And as he is who willingly acquies An
the time comes that causes him to lose, Who
weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E
such made me that beast withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thr me back thither where the sun is silent While
was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes did one present himself, Who seen from long-continued silence hoarse. When I
beheld him in the desert vast, 'Have pity on m
unto him I cried, "Whiche'er thou art, or shade
real man!" He answered me: "Not man; man o

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For the

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is

INFERI LIGHT 60 PT

Midway upon the journey of

INFERI LIGHT 30 PT

Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had

INFERI LIGHT 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward
pathway had been lost

INFERI LIGHT 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with

INFERI LIGHT 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and

INFERI LIGHT 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were come With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; As a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk he caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished of her height. And as he is who willingly acquires At the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such made me that beast withouten peace Which, coming on against me by degrees Turned me back thither where the sun is silent While was rushing downward to the lowland. Before mine eyes did one present himself, Who seemed from long-continued silence hoarse. When I beheld him in the desert vast, "Have I on me," unto him I cried, "Whiche'er thou art,

INFERI LIGHT 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI LIGHT 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For

INFERI LIGHT 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is

Midway upon the journey of

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But

after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with

distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungering: Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With t' affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished of the height. And as he is who willingly acquires And the time comes i causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such made me that beast withouten peace, Which, comi on against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before my eyes did one present himself, Who seemed from long-continued silence hoarse. When I beheld him in the desert vast, "Have pity on

INFERI BOOK 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI BOOK 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For

INFERI BOOK 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it,

INFERI NORMAL 60 PT

Midway upon the journey of

INFERI NORMAL 30 PT

Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself within
a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had

INFERI NORMAL 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost

INFERI NORMAL 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which

INFERI NORMAL 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the

INFERI NORMAL 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give n fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. It seemed as if against me he were coming Wi head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, Sc that it seemed the air was afraid of him; Anc she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed t be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upo me so much heaviness, With the affright th from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished of the height. And as he is who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such mad me that beast withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Bef mine eyes did one present himself, Who seemed from long-continued silence hoars

INFERI NORMAL 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI NORMAL 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For

INFERI NORMAL 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So

INFERI REGULAR 60 PT

Midway upon the journey of

INFERI REGULAR 30 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had

INFERI REGULAR 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost

INFERI REGULAR 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley

INFERI REGULAR 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth

INFERI REGULAR 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. I seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; An she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished of the height. And as he is who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such made me that beast withouten peace, Which, coming against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes did one present himself,

INFERI REGULAR 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI REGULAR 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For

INFERI REGULAR 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah
me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So

INFERI MEDIUM 60 PT

Midway upon the journey of

INFERI MEDIUM 30 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway

INFERI MEDIUM 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost

INFERI MEDIUM 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley

INFERI MEDIUM 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath,

INFERI MEDIUM 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope,

The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished the height. And as he is who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such made me the beast withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is silent While I was

INFERI MEDIUM 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI MEDIUM 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For

INFERI MEDIUM 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah
me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So

INFERI SEMI BOLD 60 PT

Midway upon the journey

INFERI SEMI BOLD 30 PT

Midway upon the journey
of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway

INFERI SEMI BOLD 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost

INFERI SEMI BOLD 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the

INFERI SEMI BOLD 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with

INFERI SEMI BOLD 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope,

The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished the height. And as he is who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such made me the beast withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is silent While I was

INFERRI SEMI BOLD 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERRI SEMI BOLD 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,

INFERRI SEMI BOLD 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah
me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear.

Midway upon the journey

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed to air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished of the height. And as he is willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such me that beast withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust back thither where the sun is silent While

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night,

INFERRI BOLD 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERRI BOLD 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,

INFERRI BOLD 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah
me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear.

INFERI EXTRA BOLD 60 PT

Midway upon the journey

INFERI EXTRA BOLD 30 PT

Midway upon the journey
of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the straightforward

INFERI EXTRA BOLD 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost

INFERI EXTRA BOLD 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point

INFERI EXTRA BOLD 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And

INFERI EXTRA BOLD 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout

The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things;

So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The ho of time, and the delicious season; But not much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So th it seemed the air was afraid of him; And she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seeme to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She broug upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That the hope relinquished of the height. And he is who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weep in all his thoughts and is despondent, Ee such made me that beast withouten peac Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is

INFERI EXTRA BOLD 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI EXTRA BOLD 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life
I found myself within a forest dark,

INFERI EXTRA BOLD 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost.
Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews

INFERI BLACK 60 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI BLACK 30 PT

Midway upon the journey
of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For
the straightforward

INFERI BLACK 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost

INFERI BLACK 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At

INFERI BLACK 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And

INFERI BLACK 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout

The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against; he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That the hope relinquished of the height. And he is who willingly acquires And the tim comes that causes him to lose, Who weep in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'e such made me that beast withouten peace Which, coming on against me by degree:

INFERI BLACK 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI BLACK 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life
I found myself within a forest dark,

INFERI BLACK 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost.
Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews

INFERI DANTE ITALIC 60 PT

Midway upon
the journey of

INFERI DANTE ITALIC 30 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost

INFERI DANTE ITALIC 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway
had been lost

INFERI DANTE ITALIC 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I

INFERI DANTE ITALIC 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear.
So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered,
So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way.
But after I had reached a mountain's

foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted.
That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was

INFERI DANTE ITALIC 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear.
So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered,
So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way.
But after I had reached a mountain's

soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower.
And lo! almost where the ascent began. A panther light and swift exceedingly,
Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned.
The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars, That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished of the height.

And as he is who willingly acquires And I time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such ma me that beast withouten peace, Which, coming against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes did one present himself, Who seemed from long-continued silence hoarse. When I beheld him in the desert vast,
"Have pity on me," unto him I cried, "Whiche'er thou art, or shade or real man!
He answered me: "Not man; man once I was, A both my parents were of Lombardy, And Mantua by country both of them. Sub Julio was I born, though it was late, And lived at Rome under the

INFERI DANTE ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI DANTE ITALIC 45 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the*

INFERI DANTE ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the*

INFERI THIN ITALIC 60 PT

Midway upon
the journey of

INFERI THIN ITALIC 30 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had

INFERI THIN ITALIC 18 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway
had been lost

INFERI THIN ITALIC 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw
there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I

INFERI THIN ITALIC 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more;
But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way.
But after I had reached a mountain's

foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted.
That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was

INFERI THIN ITALIC 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounding with those stars. That with him were,

what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was

afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagren.
And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the ho relinquished of the height. And as he is who willingly acquires And the time comes that caus him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and i despondent, E'en such made me that beast withouten peace, Which, coming on against me degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes did one present him Who seemed from long-continued silence hour.
When I beheld him in the desert vast, "Have pity me," unto him I cried, "Whiche'er thou art, or sh or real man!" He answered me: "Not man; man once I was, And both my parents were of Lombardy, And Mantuans by country both of th Sub Julio was I born, though it was late, And live

INFERRI THIN ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERRI THIN ITALIC 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the

INFERRI THIN ITALIC 27 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT ITALIC 60 PT

*Midway upon
the journey of*

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT ITALIC 30 PT

*Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had*

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT ITALIC 18 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway
had been lost*

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT ITALIC 13 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But
of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of
slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley
terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I*

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT ITALIC 10 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a* *mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who,

with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still*

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT ITALIC 6 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear.
So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous*

*and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing
onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass
Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the
lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A
panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a
spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved
she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede
so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars.
That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me.
He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger; So that it* *seemed the air was afraid of him; And a shethat with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in I meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heavine With the affright that from her aspect came, The the hope relinquished of the height. And as he is who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thought and is despondent, E'en such made me that bea withouten peace, Which, coming on against me

degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is;
silent While I was rushing downward to the
lowland, Before mine eyes did one present him:
Who seemed from long-continued silence hear
When I beheld him in the desert vast, "Have pity me," unto him I cried, "Whiche'er thou art, or sh
or real man!" He answered me: "Not man; man once I was, And both my parents were of Lombardy, And Mantuans by country both of them. Sub Julio was I born, though it was late, A*

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT ITALIC 45 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For the*

INFERI EXTRA LIGHT ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which
in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more;*

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT ITALIC 60 PT

*Midway upon
the journey of*

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT ITALIC 30 PT

*Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had*

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT ITALIC 18 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway
had been lost*

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT ITALIC 13 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,
For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more;
But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way.
But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I*

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT ITALIC 10 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah
me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat
how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a*

*mountain's foot, At that point where the
valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul,*

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT ITALIC 6 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there.
I cannot well repeat how there I entered. So full was I of slumber at the moment in which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon* *the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo!

almost where the ascent began, A panther light
and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin
was covered o'er! And never moved she from
before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much
my way, That many times I to return had turned.
The time was the beginning of the morning, And
up the sun was mounting with those stars. That
with him were, what time the Love Divine At first
in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head*

*uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-w that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heavin.
With the affright that from her aspect came, Th the hope relinquished of the height. And as he i who willingly acquires And the time comes tha causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoug and is despondent, E'en such made me that bec withouten peace, Which, coming against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the st is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes did one present himself, Who seemed from long-continued sil hoarse. When I beheld him in the desert vast,
"Have pity on me," unto him I cried, "Which'er thou art, or shade or real man!" He answered r "Not man; man once I was, And both my pare were of Lombardy, And Mantuans by country*

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT ITALIC 45 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For the*

INFERI ULTRA LIGHT ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest
dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little*

INFERI LIGHT ITALIC 60 PT

*Midway upon
the journey of*

INFERI LIGHT ITALIC 30 PT

*Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had*

INFERI LIGHT ITALIC 18 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the straightforward
pathway had been lost*

INFERI LIGHT ITALIC 13 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest
dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced*

INFERI LIGHT ITALIC 10 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah
me! how hard a thing it is to say What was
this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But* *after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout

The night, which I had passed so piteously
And even as he, who, with distressful
breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the
shore, Turns to the water perilous and*

INFERI LIGHT ITALIC 6 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me!
how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest
savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very
thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there.
I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full
was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road.
Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night,
which I had passed so piteously And even as he,
who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from* *the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water

perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was
fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the
pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of
time, and the delicious season; But not so much,
that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he*

*were coming With head uplifted, and with
ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagerness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspe came, That I the hope relinquished of the heigl And as he is who willingly acquies And the ti comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such mac me that beast withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust me back thil where the sun is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes d. one present himself, Who seemed from long-continued silence hoarse. When I beheld him in the desert vast, "Have pity on me," unto him I cried, "Whiche'er thou art, or shade or re man!" He answered me: "Not man; man once*

INFERRI LIGHT ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERRI LIGHT ITALIC 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the

INFERRI LIGHT ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest
dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little*

INFERI BOOK ITALIC 60 PT

*Midway upon
the journey of*

INFERI BOOK ITALIC 30 PT

*Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had*

INFERI BOOK ITALIC 18 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the straightforward
pathway had been lost*

INFERI BOOK ITALIC 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced

INFERI BOOK ITALIC 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water

INFERI BOOK ITALIC 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful

breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me I were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to liv forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her asp came, That I the hope relinquished of the heig And as he is who willingly acquires And the h comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such ma me that beast withouten peace, Which, comir on against me by degrees Thrust me back thit where the sun is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes c one present himself, Who seemed from long-continued silence hoarse. When I behelc him in the desert vast, "Have pity on me," unlc him I cried, "Whiche'er thou art, or shade or ir

INFERRI BOOK ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERRI BOOK ITALIC 45 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For*

INFERRI BOOK ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest
dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death*

INFERI NORMAL ITALIC 60 PT

*Midway upon
the journey of*

INFERI NORMAL ITALIC 30 PT

*Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself within
a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had*

INFERI NORMAL ITALIC 18 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost*

INFERI NORMAL ITALIC 13 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest
dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with*

INFERI NORMAL ITALIC 10 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost.
Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear.
So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there.
I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But*

*after I had reached a mountain's foot, At
that point where the valley terminated,
Which had with consternation pierced my
heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the*

INFERI NORMAL ITALIC 6 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated,
Which had with consternation pierced my
heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its
shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who,*

*with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous
and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing
onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass
Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly,
Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er!
And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin
of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the
delicious season; But not so much, that did not* give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenohunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungering Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With ti affright that from her aspect came, That I th hope relinquished of the height. And as he is who willingly acquies And the time comes t causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such made me that beast withouten peace, Which, comi on against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before m eyes did one present himself, Who seemed fi long-continued silence hoarse. When I behel him in the desert vast, "Have pity on me," unt

INFERI NORMAL ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI NORMAL ITALIC 45 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For*

INFERI NORMAL ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest
dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it,*

INFERI REGULAR ITALIC 60 PT

*Midway upon
the journey of*

INFERI REGULAR ITALIC 30 PT

*Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself within
a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway*

INFERI REGULAR ITALIC 18 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost*

INFERI REGULAR ITALIC 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which

INFERI REGULAR ITALIC 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the

true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the

INFERI REGULAR ITALIC 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the

even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air v afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to l forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished o the height. And as he is who willingly acqui And the time comes that causes him to lose Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such made me that beast withouten peace, Which, coming on agains me by degrees Thrust me back thither when the sun is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes did one present himself, Who seemed from

INFERRI REGULAR ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERRI REGULAR ITALIC 45 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For*

INFERRI REGULAR ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a
forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah
me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So*

INFERI MEDIUM ITALIC 60 PT

*Midway upon
the journey of*

INFERI MEDIUM ITALIC 30 PT

*Midway upon the journey of
our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway*

INFERI MEDIUM ITALIC 18 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost*

INFERI MEDIUM ITALIC 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley

INFERI MEDIUM ITALIC 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had

abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth

INFERI MEDIUM ITALIC 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so

piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered oer! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give . fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. seemed as if against me he were coming W head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, S that it seemed the air was afraid of him; A she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seeme to be laden in her meagreness, And many J has caused to live forlorn! She brought up me so much heaviness, With the affright th from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished of the height. And as he is who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such mac me that beast withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust n: back thither where the sun is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before mine eyes did one present himself,

INFERI MEDIUM ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI MEDIUM ITALIC 45 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I
found myself within a forest dark, For*

INFERI MEDIUM ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah
me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So*

INFERI SEMI BOLD ITALIC 60 PT

*Midway upon
the journey of*

INFERI SEMI BOLD ITALIC 30 PT

*Midway upon the journey
of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway*

INFERI SEMI BOLD ITALIC 18 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost*

INFERI SEMI BOLD ITALIC 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the

INFERI SEMI BOLD ITALIC 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had

abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth

INFERI SEMI BOLD ITALIC 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had

passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated

skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, a the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against n he were coming With head uplifted, and w ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that wi all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished the height. And as he is who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such made me the beast withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is silent While I was rushing downward to the lowland, Before

INFERRI SEMI BOLD ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERRI SEMI BOLD ITALIC 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,

INFERRI SEMI BOLD ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah
me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So*

Midway upon the journey

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed to air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, the with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness. And many folk has cause to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished of the height. And as he is willingly acquires And the time comes the causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such make me that beast withouten peace, Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust back thither where the sun is silent While

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night,

INFERI BOLD ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI BOLD ITALIC 45 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark,

INFERI BOLD ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost.
Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest
savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews*

INFERI EXTRA BOLD ITALIC 60 PT

*Midway
upon the*

INFERI EXTRA BOLD ITALIC 30 PT

*Midway upon the journey
of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For
the straightforward*

INFERI EXTRA BOLD ITALIC 18 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost*

INFERI EXTRA BOLD ITALIC 13 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that

INFERI EXTRA BOLD ITALIC 10 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment

In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And

INFERI EXTRA BOLD ITALIC 6 PT

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout

The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things;

So were to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The ho of time, and the delicious season; But not much, that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So th it seemed the air was afraid of him; And she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seeme to be laden in her meagreness, And many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brogt upon me so much heaviness, With the affright that from her aspect came, That the hope relinquished of the height. And t he is who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weep in all his thoughts and is despondent, Eer such made me that beast withouten peac Which, coming on against me by degrees Thrust me back thither where the sun is

INFERI EXTRA BOLD ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI EXTRA BOLD ITALIC 45 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life
I found myself within a forest dark,*

INFERI EXTRA BOLD ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost.
Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest
savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews*

Midway
upon the

Midway upon the journey
of our life I found myself
within a forest dark, For
the straightforward

Midway upon the journey of our life I found
myself within a forest dark, For the
straightforward pathway had been lost

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the

moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And throughout The night, which I had passed so piteously And even as he, who, with distressful breath, Forth issued from the sea upon the shore, Turns to the water perilous and gazes; So did my soul, that still was fleeing onward, Turn itself back to re-behold the pass Which never yet a living person left. After my weary body I had rested, The way resumed I on the desert slope, So that the firm foot ever was the lower. And lo! almost where the ascent began, A panther light and swift exceedingly, Which with a spotted skin was covered o'er! And never moved she from before my face, Nay, rather did impede so much my way, That many times I to return had turned. The time was the beginning of the morning, And up the sun was mounting with those stars. That with him were, what time the Love Divine At first in motion set those beauteous things; So we to me occasion of good hope, The variegated skin of that wild beast, The hour of time, and the delicious season; But not so much that did not give me fear A lion's aspect which appeared to me. He seemed as if against me he were coming With head uplifted, and with ravenous hunger, So that it seemed the air was afraid of him; And a she-wolf, that with all hungerings Seemed to be laden in her meagreness, A many folk has caused to live forlorn! She brought upon me so much heaviness, Wi the affright that from her aspect came, That I the hope relinquished of the height And as he is who willingly acquires And the time comes that causes him to lose, Who weeps in all his thoughts and is despondent, E'en such made me that bea withouten peace, Which, coming on

Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost. Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews the fear. So bitter is it, death is little more; But of the good to treat, which there I found, Speak will I of the other things I saw there. I cannot well repeat how there I entered, So full was I of slumber at the moment In which I had abandoned the true way. But after I had reached a mountain's foot, At that point where the valley terminated, Which had with consternation pierced my heart, Upward I looked, and I beheld its shoulders Vested already with that planet's rays Which leadeth others right by every road. Then was the fear a little quieted. That in my heart's lake had endured

INFERI BLACK ITALIC 90 PT

Midway upon the

INFERI BLACK ITALIC 45 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life
I found myself within a forest dark,*

INFERI BLACK ITALIC 27 PT

*Midway upon the journey of our life I found myself within a forest dark, For the straightforward pathway had been lost.
Ah me! how hard a thing it is to say What was this forest
savage, rough, and stern, Which in the very thought renews*

STRAIGHT FROM
THE BLAZE